Arkansan on Stand in Murder Case

By ARTHUR EVERETT

MIAMI Fla. (AP) I A Bible-conscious jailbird goes back beneath the trip hammer of cross-examination at the Jacques Mossler murder trial today, his ears still smarting from defense cries of "liar" and "perjurer."

He is Arthur Grimsley, a curlyhaired thief from the Arkansas State Penitentiary. He has changed the time of a kill-for-hire offer he claims to have received from Melvin Lane Powers.

Powers' lawyer, Percy Foreman, subjected Grimsley to 30 minutes of cross-examination Wednesday, and was scheduled for more today.

Before Grimsley returned to the stand Wednesday, the state had witnessed to pursue its relentless stop-watch surveillance of Powers' movements before and after 1:45 a.m. June 30, 1964 — when the 69-year-old Mossler was bludgeoned and then stabbed 39 times in his Key Biscayne apartment.

Prosecution testimony already had placed Powers near the scene an hour before Mossler's death. Subsequent testimony dealt with Powers' departure by air from Miami after the slaying.

The state claims Mrs. Mossler left the Mossler apartment with her children in a premeditated murder design, clearing the way for Powers to kill her husband.

Mrs. Mossler, admitting to a 40th birthday Friday, is accused with her nephew, the husky, dark-haired Powers, 29, of doing away with her aging husband.

The state says they wanted his money and did not want to stop a love affair.

Grimsley, who says he became an ordained minister as a result of his behind-bars Bible study, testified earlier this week that he once worked in a magazine sales crew with Powers.

He said that about June 15 or 16, 1962, Powers offered him money to kidnap Mossler.

"We don't want him back. We want him killed," Grimsley said Powers told him.

Wednesday, Grimsley said he rechecked and decided his sequence was in error.

Murphy Never Quit Battle for Congress

By JOHN R. STARR

Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Even when it became apparent that Rep. Glen Harris had won the 4th District congressional race in 1964, Dean Murphy refused to concede defeat.

"The battle is lost, the war goes on, he said. I will be a candidate again in 1966."

The 45-year-old businessman fulfilled his promise Monday by filing as a Democratic candidate in both the regular primary July 26 and a special primary if one is held earlier.

But the complexion of the war had changed. Harris, his target of 1961, was a federal judge. Murphy stepped into a race with at least four hard-running candidates.

"It should be interesting," he said.

Murphy, who operates a truck stop eight miles west of Hope, moved from Hope to Texarkana seven months ago so that his legal residence would remain in the 4th District. Hempstead County (Hope) was moved into the 3rd District by redistricting last year.

"I moved because I believe a congressman should live in the district he represents," Murphy said.

Murphy is no stranger to Texarkana. He lived there in the 1950s and attended Texarkana Junior College.

Born and reared in the Wallace community in Little River County, four miles from Foreman, Murphy was the son of a rural storekeeper. His first experience in business was as operator of the store while his father was ill in 1946-47.

"I've been in business for myself ever since," he said. "I established my present business where a frog pond used to be and built it into the second largest truck stop in Arkansas."

Murphy graduated from Foreman High School in 1938 and, like many youths of that period, he worked where he could at any job he could find.

"I've worked for as little as $5 a week and board and a sack of Bull Durham tobacco," he said.

He opened a laundry and cleaning business in Foreman in 1947 and it was from this business that politics lured him a year later. He was elected circuit and chancery clerk of Little River County in 1948 and held the office for six years. He decided not to seek a fourth term and moved to a hotel in Dallas, Tex. He gave up the hotel to establish the truck stop.

Jacksonville Votes for Bonds

JACKSONVILLE, Ark. (AP)

— Jacksonville voters approved by a 10-1 margin Tuesday two bond issues totaling $3.3 million to be used to finance expansion of the Redmond Division of American Controls Co.

Voters approved 1,020 to 90 a $3 million issue to finance construction of a new plant and 1,004 to 98 a $300,000 issue to purchase the present plant of the industry.

Redmond Division said upon completion of the new plant, an additional 500 to 1,000 persons would be hired.

France Fires a Rocket Successfully

HAMMAGUIR, Algeria (AP)

— France today successfully fired a three-stage rocket and put a 41-pound scientific satellite into orbit. It was the second all-French launching of a satellite.

After two failures due to mechanical troubles last Friday and Saturday, the liquid-fueled Diamond II rocket lifted off from this base on the edge of the Sahara.

Officials said the rocket functioned normally and the satellite's orbit closely followed the one planned — from a high point of 1,660 miles above the earth to a low point of 317 miles.

Technicians at the Breigny tracking center near Paris said they were receiving the Zebulon satellite's radio transmissions normally.

The satellite is to send back information for mapping the earth's magnetic field and to aid studies of the earth's form and structure.

It was the second use of France's Diamond rocket to send a French-made satellite into orbit. The first was on Nov. 26 when a smaller spacecraft was orbited to send back temperature reports. It went silent after a few hours.

At another point, he said that "unless this job is done a military victory in South Viet Nam would be no victory at all — only a brief delay until the aggressor returns to feed on the continuing misery of the people."

At no point during his discussion of Viet Nam, interrupted several times by applause, did Johnson use the word "peace."

Neither did he mention any hope for a negotiated settlement.

This seemed significant inasmuch as all the presidential statements on the subjects in recent months have coupled affirmations of American determination on the military front with expressions of hope for a peaceful settlement.

Peaceful Solution Talk Avoided

By FRANK CORMIER

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) President Johnson, in his latest defense of administration policies in Viet Nam, has talked of eventual military victory and, perhaps pointedly, avoided all references to hopes for a peaceful solution.

Addressing the convention of the American Association of School Administrators here Wednesday night, Johnson devoted almost as many words to Viet Nam as to education.

In an obvious response to critics who claim this country's stake in Southeast Asia does not warrant war, Johnson said he came away from his Honolulu conference with leaders of South Viet Nam "convinced that we cannot raise a double standard to the world."

He said: "We cannot hold freedom less dear in Asia than in Europe or be less willing to freedom less dear in Asia than in Europe or be less willing to sacrifice for men whose skin is a different color."

Adding that political and social reforms in South Viet Nam must go hand in hand with military action, Johnson asserted, "in other words, while winning a war we must get a the defects that caused it."

At another point, he said that "unless this job is done a military victory in South Viet Nam would be no victory at all — only a brief delay until the aggressor returns to feed on the continuing misery of the people."

CBS Names a Acting President

NEW YORK (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System has named Richard S. Salanas acting president of its news division.

Salant, 51, succeeds Fred W. Friendly, 50, who resigned Wednesday in a dispute over a network decision not to provide live coverage of a Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearing on Viet Nam last Thursday.

John A. Schneider, CBS vice president in charge of broadcasting, named Salant to the post Wednesday. Salant had served as CBS news president from 1961 to 1964 when Friendly succeeded him.

Nations Told to End Differences

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BANGKOK (AP) — Thailand has been approached by Cambodian officials to settle differences between the two traditional enemies, Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman said today.

Thanat declined to elaborate to newsmen on the approach, but informed sources said it was made about two weeks ago and is being studied to determine if it is authentic.

Thailand and Cambodia share a predominantly jungled border stretching from the Gulf of Siam to the Mekong River. They have been historical enemies and have clashed repeatedly along the border, most recently earlier this month.

The two countries broke diplomatic relations in 1961.

Leslie Huddleston Unit 12
The promotion of Americanism for better understanding by both youth and adults of today was emphasized at meeting of the Leslie Huddleston Unit 12, American Legion Auxiliary, on Tuesday, February 15 in the home of Mrs. Olin Purcell, when Rep. Talbot Feild, Jr. spoke to the group. His thoughtful message traced U. S. history to the present day, and R. E. Feild was introduced by Mrs. E. F. Formbu, Americanism chairman who arranged the program.

During the business meeting the president, Mrs. E. S. Franklin, had charge of routine matters. Pink roses and red roses graced the home, and during the refreshment hour Mrs. Purcell and her co-hostess, Mrs. David Frith, served dessert and hot chocolate to 12.

DeAnn Lilac Garden Club
Mrs. Irvin Burke's home was the scene of the DeAnn Lilac Garden Club meeting on Tuesday, February 15, and Mrs. W. H. Burke was co-hostess. Arrangements of pretty flowers were seen at vantage points in the home. The club president, Mrs. Wayward Burke, opened the meeting, and Mrs. W. H. Burke, gave the devotion followed by all repeating the Lord's Prayer.

Members answered the roll by telling their plans for planting flowers at the homes. A most interesting program, "Growing and Caring For Camellias," was presented by Mrs. Jesse Burke. She also distributed cuttings of her camellias to the members.

Symmetrical arrangements were brought by the members, and Mrs. C. R. Samuel won first place in the judging of them. A dessert plate with coffee or tea were served to 17 members and little Misses Jan and "Missie" Burke. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Trula Coffee.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Q. Will Raymond Burr, also known as Perry Mason, please take the stand?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now Mr. Burr, there have been all kinds of reports about whether the television series "Perry Mason" will return to CBS for a 10th season next year. Will it?

A. I don't know.

Q. You don't know! But surely, Mr. Burr, as star of the popular courtroom series you should be informed on such matters. You reported that you would be willing to perform on a 10th season, did you not?

A. Yes, I did — at the beginning of this season, and it surprised a few folks. I thought it might be advantageous for me to do one more year, for a variety of reasons.

Q. Yet your producer, Gail Patrick Jackson, has announced that "Perry Mason" will not be back next year.

A. That is correct. Gail was piqued, as was I, that CBS did not put the show on in color. After all, they put us up against some stiff competition: "Bonanza" and the Sunday night movie, both in color. That gives the other two shows an advantage at the start.

Q. Is there really any chance

Wedding Vows

Mrs. William Newton Blake Jr.

The Vidalia Methodist Church was the scene, Saturday afternoon, January 29, of the marriage of Miss Jane Ellen Garrard daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis De Leon Garrard, to William Newton Blake of Hope. The Rev. William R. Garrard performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. James Darby, organist, and Mr. Delmas Wheeler, soloist, presented a program of nuptial music.

Mr. Blake chose W. Lucius Blake of Shreveport, to serve as his best man. The ushers were Robert H. Herndon of Milledgeville and John A. Keim, Jr. of Monroe.

Mrs. Robert H. Herndon was her sister's matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. John A. Keim, Jr., sister of the bride, and Miss Lyn Wheeler of Vidalia. The attendants were attired in floor length dresses fashioned with olive green lace, directorie bodices with scoop necklines and elbow sleeves and satin back bows accenting the long, slim ivory crepe skirts. They carried a single yellow rose stemmed with green velvet with variegated ivy leaves.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk organza over peau de soie featuring a fitted bodice and a slim skirt. Chantilly lace embroidered in beads and pearls fashioned the scalloped neckline and lantern sleeves and deeply bordered the chapel length panel train which fell from a waterfall bow. Her veil of imported silk illusion extended to fingertip length from a calot of lace embroidered in beads and also in pearls. She carried a bridal bouquet of white butterfly roses and tiny white orchids centered with an orchid.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Garrard chose a blue silk dress with matching accessories. Mrs. Blake was attired in a turquoise crepe sheath with matching accessories. Both wore a corsage of white orchids.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the Fellowship Hall.

Miss Sandra Brown of Newnan, kept the bride's book.

For traveling the bride chose a three piece green wool ensemble with lizard accessories and the orchid from her bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Blake will reside in Baton Rouge, where they are attending Louisiana State University.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help US! This newspaper.

Triple Problem

Dear Helen: You have to help me. I have problems with 3 guys in my life. No. 1, I like very much. No. 2 is a creep. No. 3 is okay.

No. 1 and No. 2 are friends, but not close ones. Every time a date dance comes up, No. 1 tells people he is going to ask me, but he doesn't get around to it till No. 2 asks me first. So I have to make up some kind of excuse, and then No. 2 hoots it over to No. 1 and tells him and of course, he figures it's the truth, so he doesn't ask me. I think creepy No. 2 enjoys ruining things for me.

Now No. 3 wants to ask me to a dance coming up and I know the same thing will happen. That No. 2! Some boys are stupider than burros, stubborn than donkeys, meaner than mules, and I guess you know what I'd like to call him, especially since his name is Jack. — Ex-Tomboy

Dear Ex: Why make up an excuse when a straightforward "No thank you" will do? If you don't want a little white lie repeated in the wrong places, don't say it in the first place. Letting this kind of guy down easy is no way to bounce him out of your life. — H.

Dear Helen: I am a boy, 16, a sophomore. My mother works and has to leave town often for weeks at a time. My father died when I was very young. I have a half-sister, 30 years old, and a real one 18. Both live at home. When my mother leaves, she puts my oldest sister in charge.

During this period, I am treated like a nine-year-old. I must do all the housework, dishes, floors, cook, etc. If I hesitate or object to her demands, I get punished physically. It seems to me she gets some pleasure out of spanking me.

Sometimes I am spanked in the presence of my 18-year-old sister, and then I am made to stand in the corner or do housework.

I mention this to my mother and she simply says to obey better, but, Helen, these spankings occur for the most trivial thing. — Is something wrong here? — No Name

Dear N.N.: Yes, I'd think something is very wrong here, and your mother doesn't put a stop to it, there's something wrong with her. — H.

Eternal Question

Dear Helen: Can you tell me WHY boys are such lousy letter writers? I don't mean little boys who don't know any better, but big boys (late teens) who have enough sense to know it's only polite to answer a letter. Heaven stamps aren't THAT expensive! — Reader

Dear Reader: A lot of people in this world freeze at the sight of a blank sheet of stationery. For these people (mostly male) letter writing is torture. If you are pretty sure he likes you do not insist on frequent letters to prove it — and if you're not at all sure of him, insist even less! That's an awfully good route to nowhereville, mail and male. — H.

Squad Thought

Job Completed

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Loveland Life Squad thought it had completed its job. Members were sent on an emergency Wednesday to the home of Alice Patterson, 35, They assisted in the birth of a girl.

But as they accompanied her to a hospital, Mrs. Patterson began complaining of pains. They speeded up the trip and after reaching the hospital, Mrs. Patterson gave birth to another child, a boy.

Mrs. Patterson and the twins — and the Life Squad members — were reported "just fine."

Incidentally, the births were the 14th and 15th for Mrs. Patterson. But it was the first set of twins.

CONGRESSMAN DIES — Death of Rep. Albert Thomas, 67, Texas Democrat, in Washington opened the way for an expected sharp election battle to succeed him in the House seat from Houston. Potential candidates earlier had been reluctant to run against Thomas, a 30-year congressional veteran and House power.

Birthday Present on Toll Road

BOSTON (AP) — Motorists on the Weston-to-Boston extension of the Massachusetts Turnpike may ride toll-free Friday, as a birthday present.

The Turnpike Authority said the free ride is in celebration of the extension's first anniversary. The toll is normally 50 cents.

Falcons Did Better Than the Vikings

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys and Minnesota Vikings agree that the newly stocked Atlanta Falcons fared better than they did as National Football League expansion franchises in 1960 and 1961.

"I would like to have had that group when we started," said Tex Schramm, general manager of the Cowboys, who finished their first season in 1960 with an 0-11-1 record.

"They are better off than we were," said John Thompson, assistant general manager of the Vikings, whose first team in 1961 wound up with a 3-11 mark. Commissioner Pete Rozelle and the other NFL owners went along with the thinking of the Cowboys and the Vikings.

"I feel, with the stocking program and the rookies Atlanta has signed, they are in much better position than either Dallas or Minnesota at the start," said Rozelle.

Vince Lombardi, coach and general manager of the champion Green Bay Packers put it this way:

"They are very well stocked, far better than anyone thought they would be at the time."

The Falcons were stocked Wednesday with 42 experienced players from NFL rosters. They averaged 26.2 years old and about 3 1/2 years of experience. The Falcons also have 22 rookies and a large number of free agents, making a total of 94 players.

"I am very pleased," said Coach Norb Hecker of Atlanta. "We have a fine group of defensive backs and defensive linemen."

"The big surprises to me were Dennis Clardige of Green Bay, Alex Hawkins of Baltimore, Larry Benz and Bobby Franklin of Cleveland and Maury Youmans of Dallas."

"As of now, Clardige is my quarterback. I think he is a great prospect."

The league never has announced any financial figures on the Atlanta franchise, but it is reported owner Rankin Smith put up $8.5 million to get the team.

It is understood that $50,000 goes into the league treasury as a franchise fee, and the rest is divided among the other 14 clubs over a period of years. That would give each team about $600,000. As each gave up three players, it could be figured at $200,000 a man.

The Falcons took 23 offensive players and 19 defensive men from the established clubs. According to league compilations, 22 of the players have held starting jobs in the NFL throughout not all in 1965.

Hecker outlined his personnel on a blackboard depth chart, showing an offensive unit with Clardige at quarter, Ernie Wheelwright of New York or Junior Coffey of Green Bay at fullback and Perry Lee Dunn of Dallas, Dan Lewis of Washington or Randy Johnson of San Francisco a running back.

His receivers would be Neal Petties and Hawkins of Baltimore, Bill Martin of Chicago, Rob Jencks of Washington, Dale Messer of San Francisco and Red Mack of Pittsburgh.

3 Teams Are Closer to an NCAA Bid

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Chicago Loyola and Oklahoma City, two of the nation's top independents, have moved closer to their objective of landing a bid to next month's NCAA tournament that determines the national collegiate basketball champion.

The Loyola Ramblers, fourth-ranked nationally in this week's Associated Press poll, invaded Dayton, Ohio, Wednesday night and scored an impressive 77-72 victory over the Dayton Flyers, another leading independent. It was Loyola's 19th victory against two defeats.

The Oklahoma City Chiefs also won impressively on the road. They came from 12 points back to defeat West Texas 87-80 at Canyon, Texas. It was the Chiefs' 10th in a row, their 14th victory in their last 15 games and upped their season record to 20-3.

Penn State, Virginia Tech and Temple similarly kept alive their hopes for a postseason tournament bid.

Penn State 14-4, rolled over West Virginia 108-81 for its 25th straight home-court victory. Virginia Tech, 17-4, downed The Citadel on the road 67-61. Temple, 18-5, crushed Fordham 91-74 in the opener of a doubleheader at the Palestra in Philadelphia.

Villanova routed St. Bonaventure 93-81 in the second game behind Bill Melchioni's 44 points, his career high for one game.

Chicago Loyola, the only team in the AP Top Ten to play Wednesday, weather a furious late rally by Dayton. A sellout crowd of 5,880 cheered as the Flyers, behind by 12 points at 68-56, cut the deficit to one point at 73-72 in the last minute. The Ramblers held on as Jim Coleman converted twice from the foul line and Doug Wardlaw scored a two-pointer at the final buzzer.

Wardlaw led the Ramblers with 28 points as they snapped Dayton's 20-game winning streak at home. Don May, with 25, and Henry Finkel, with 20, were high for Dayton, now 18-4 for the season.

Jerry Lee Wells, with 31 points, led the Oklahoma City rally that wiped out West Texas' 12-point lead near the end of the first half. Mickey Flitts paced the Buffaloes with 30 points, 19 of them in the first half.

Maryland, on the rebound after losing eight games, won its sixth in a row by defeating Virginia on the road 71-64 for an over-all 13-8 record. Toledo also won the road. The Rockets downed Bowling Green 71-66 and kept alive their hopes of beating out Miami of Ohio for the Mid-American Conference title.

In other Wednesday games, Mississippi State scored a 90-74 road triumph over Mississippi. At home, Georgia beat Auburn 83-74. Xavier of Ohio downed Marquette 82-78, and the Air Force whipped Valparaiso 88-69.

Southern III. Top Small U.S. College

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cheyney State of Pennsylvania has rushed toward the top of the small-college Top Ten basketball rankings, but Southern Illinois still holds a slim lead.

Each team received three of the 13 first-place votes, but Southern Illinois, 14-4, maintained its lead by drawing 97 points over all to 92 for Cheyney State, the only unbeaten small-college team in the country.

The Salukis' first-place margin was cut by their 65-61 loss last week to Tennessee State, which climbed from ninth to seventh in the rankings. Cheyney State, on the other hand, increased its record to 22-0 with victories over Mansfield and East Stroudsburg.

Voting in the poll was based on games through last Saturday. Cheyney, third last week, changed places with Grambling, 17-3, which split in two games last week.

The Top Ten, with records through Saturday, and points: 1. Southern Ill. 14-4, 97; 2. Cheyney State 22-0, 92; 3. Grambling 17-3, 69; 4. North Dakota 19-3, 66; 5. Northern Mich. 14-3, 59; 6. Youngstown 16-1, 53; 7. Tenn State 17-2, 43; 8. Evansville 15-6, 31; 9. Indiana State 20-3, 31; 10. Seattle Pacific 19-3, 28.

WINTER STRING OF BEAUTIES—Cold weather must stimulate the appetites of fish in Kentucky's Lake Cumberland. Joe Polston, Jamestown, Ky., displays the impressive bass catch he and Joe Smiley, Lexington, Ky., made in 15-degree weather. The four smallmouth in the center weighed 4 1/2 to 6 1/4 pounds; the two largemouth on either side were 7-pounders. The two anglers cast doll flies and pork rind.

Outdoors

By DICK WOLFF
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

This is the time of year when the offices of most sporting goods manufacturers look like ghost towns. Everyone is off to various sports shows around the country. Sportsmen should make a point to be off to them, too.

Whether your fancy is boats or rods, reels or shotguns, a show provides you with an opportunity to examine not only one manufacturer's entire line of products but also the lines of several manufacturers. Look at it this way: The average tackle store may stock 50 different fishing rods, if that many. Conlon alone markets 191 different rods. The advantages should be obvious.

A sportsman's show offers other services, the most important perhaps being the advice of experts, men who can discuss individual hunting, boating and fishing problems. Take a simple matter, say, like twists in a fishing line. Thousands of anglers are driven daffy by this each year, but few realize it all traces back to the fact they incorrectly put the line onto the reel.

An expert can point this out. He can show you that when a spinning reel is involved, the line must uncoil off the face of the factory spool in a direction opposite to that in which it goes on the reel. With a bait-casting reel, of course, the line does not uncoil, but rolls off as the factory spool is rotated.

This is just one small bit of information, but it can save many headaches later on. If an angler has an ounce of curiosity, then he can come away from a sportsman's show with pounds of solid advice, to say nothing of tons of free literature.

Then, too, most outdoors shows also have entertainment. Just take care not to become part of it. One small lad did last year in New York by falling into the casting pool.

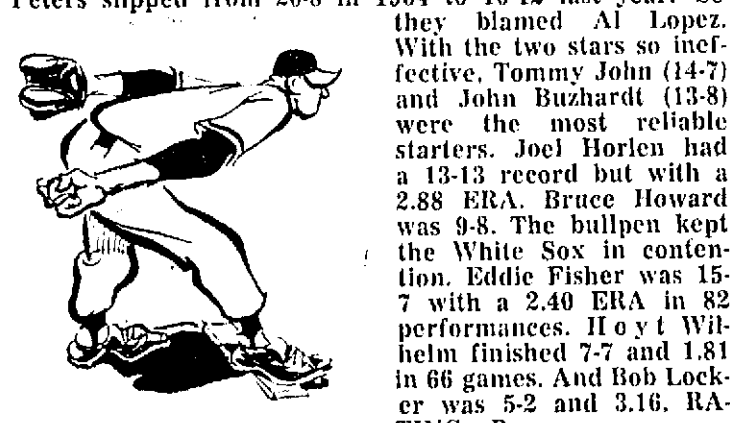

It wasn't a tragedy, of course, because the pool was only 18 inches deep, but it did, you should pardon the pun, dampen his enthusiasm.

FORM CHARTS

16-Chicago White Sox

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

PITCHING—Juan Pizarro's holdout may have cost the White Sox the pennant last season. He didn't report until April 3. Then he tried to do too much at one time and wound up with a torn tendon in his shoulder. His record for the year was 6-3 compared to 19-9 in 1964. Then Gary Peters slipped from 20-8 in 1964 to 10-12 last year.

So they blamed Al Lopez. With the two stars so ineffective, Tommy John (14-7) and John Buzhardt (13-8) were the most reliable starters. Joel Horlen had a 13-13 record but with a 2.88 ERA. Bruce Howard was 9-8. The bullpen kept the White Sox in contention. Eddie Fisher was 15-7 with a 2.40 ERA in 82 performances. Hoyt Wilhelm finished 7-7 and 1.81 in 66 games. And Bob Locker was 5-2 and 3.16. RATING—B.

INFIELD—The hitting dropped in 1965 with Pete Ward, the third baseman, down to .245. Ron Hansen, the shortstop, at .235. First baseman Bill Skowron hit .274 with 18 home runs and 78 RBI, best on the club. Don Buford, at second, hit a solid .283, the leader among the regulars. RATING—B.

OUTFIELD—Danny Cater had a quick start and slow finish, but hit .270 with 14 home runs. Ken Berry, in center, had a miserable year, hitting .218 in 157 games. And in right, Floyd Robinson, usually one of the most consistent hitters, dropped to .265. RATING—B—.

CATCHER—John Romano is a plodder. He also is a power hitter and tied Skowron for the club home run lead with 18. He has a capable back-up man in J.C. Martin, who specializes in handling Wilhelm's knuckler. RATING—B.

BENCH—The club's two best hitters, utilityman Al Weis (.296) and catcher-pinch-hitter Smoky Burgess give the White Sox good insurance in tough spots. Burgess led the league in pinch-hits last season and also set a major league record with 117. Another capable reserve is Tom McCraw who can play at first or in the outfield. RATING—A.

SUMMARY—There is lots of talent. Some, however, went stale or turned sour last year. Eddie Stanky will have to devise methods to revive such key players as Pizarro, Peters and Ward. If he does, the White Sox will make a serious challenge. Prediction—3rd.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With 900,000 Americans divorced every year, and one in four marriages in this country winding up in court, "CBS Reports" Tuesday night took a calm, if necessarily hasty look at a very large and complicated subject.

The program — "The Divorce Dilemma" — was particularly timely since New York State with its 1787 law that permits divorce on the single ground of adultery, is currently contemplating a controversial broadening of its base.

As narrator Walter Cronkite said, the subject is confused, each state has its own laws, the rich find it easier to "buy out" of an unsatisfactory marriage than the poor, and children are often the ones who suffer most.

The program was full of meaningful commentary from all sorts of good sources, reflecting the enormous range of opinion on the subject.

Cronkite, in summing up, suggested that in the divorce dilemma "we seem to be going down hill in life's most important venture, marriage."

It was a thoughtful, balanced and timely wrap-up of the problem.

A bit ironically, it was broadcast on the day that the real father of the distinguished series "CBS Reports," Fred W. Friendly, resigned as president of CBS News after a sharp disagreement on the organization's news policy.

Friendly felt that the network should provide live coverage of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearings at the expense of regular daytime programming. Last Thursday, over his protests and on orders of charge of broadcasting, John A. Schneider, the network continued programming as usual when NBC broadcast former Ambassador George Kennan's testimony on our Viet Nam policy.

Friendly, 50, had a hand in some of the most exciting innovations of "electronic journalism."

One hopes that with his departure this most important facet of television will not be shoved into a secondary position.

Television needs crusading and idealistic men like Friendly and it is too bad a management decision blew up into a situation he could not live with.

On the heels of the announcement of his resignation, CBS said it would provide live coverage of hearings Thursday and Friday when Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor and Secretary of State Dean Rusk are expected to testify.

Pro Putters Factor in the Tucson Meet

By BOB EGER
Associated Press Sports Writer
TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Golf touring pros tried their putters on the Tucson National Golf Course's giant, twisting greens and veteran Gardner Dickinson Jr., tested his ailing back today in the first round of the $60,000 Tucson Open.

The greens, averaging nearly 11,000 square feet, are expected to be a big scoring factor, with even the pros three-putting them regularly.

The field includes Dudley Wyson, a 26-year-old third-year pro from Casper, Wyo., who rolled in three long birdie putts on the back nine Monday to win the $9,000 first prize in the Phoenix Open.

Dickinson, taking pain pills daily for his chronic back ailment, led for three rounds at Phoenix. He slipped to a two-over-par 73 on the final day, but still nailed down the $5,000 second-place money.

He had said he would skip the Tucson Open, then changed his mind. "I hope I'm not making a mistake," he said Wednesday. "The back's a little better, but I probably shouldn't be playing. I just hope I don't do any permanent damage."

The 7,200-yard course is playing tougher than it did last year when lefty Bob Charles blistered it for a 17-under-par 271.

Charles, back to defend his title, doesn't anticipate the same kind of scoring.

Charles, who missed the 36-hole cut at Phoenix, his first U.S. tourney of the year, credits a taller rough for increased difficulty.

Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper and Ken Venturi, who all finished back in the pack at Phoenix, are passing up the Tucson tournament. So are Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player, both in South Africa for a series of matches.

Clay Learns Today His Draft Status

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Cassius Clay, an extraordinary young man, faced today what millions of ordinary young men face on other days: a possible call to arms through the military draft.

Clay's draft board, Local Board 47, was to meet, with Clay's name among those expected to be reclassified I-A, the top classification level. Clay currently is draft exempt, with a 1-Y rating.

Should he be reclassified, Clay's name would go on the list of those eligible to satisfy Louisville's March draft quota, as yet unassigned.

J. Allen Sherman, chairman of the local board, said Clay's name would be near the top, since he is 24 years old and unmarried. Sherman implied Clay would be called when the quota is received.

"The quota must be filled within 10 days," Sherman said Wednesday.

The Selective Service allows an inductee 10 days after his order for induction to appeal his selection. In Clay's case, an appeal would be made to the Kentucky Selective Service Appeal Board at Frankfort.

Clay's intimates are keeping hands off, letting the heavy-weight champion make his own decision on a possible appeal.

Clay hasn't said whether he will appeal.

Clay twice was rejected because he failed to make passing grades on the draft's mental examinations. The standards since have been lowered below Clay's level, because of manpower demands of the Viet Nam conflict.

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Heart Patients Should Avoid Smoking, Late Hours

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—The doctor told my husband, 56, that he has coronary insufficiency and that there is no cure for it. Can you give us any helpful suggestions?

A—Although there is no cure for the damage that has already been done steps can be taken to prevent further damage. Your husband should avoid smoking and late hours, but he should get a moderate amount of exercise (preferably walking) every day. Drop a line to the American Heart Assn. (44 E. 23rd St., New York, N.Y. 10010) and ask them for pertinent literature.

Q—Could working closely with animals to which I am allergic cause serious heart damage? Has it ever been established that an excess of cheese or eggs or both in the diet would damage the heart?

A—In some persons contact with the cause of an allergy will favor hardening of the arteries and eventually a coronary heart attack. The chief allergens that cause heart disorders, however, are foods, tobacco, drugs, serums and pollen, rather than animal dandruff or feathers.

Cheese and eggs are valuable foods. Like other foods they should be eaten in moderation unless you have an allergy to them in which case you should avoid them. Since they are high in cholesterol, taking excessive amounts over a prolonged period would favor hardening of the arteries and this, in turn, might damage the heart if it didn't damage some other vital organ first.

Q—What would cause a high cholesterol level in a middle-aged person and what symptoms would it produce? What is the normal level?

A—Cholesterol is a normal constituent of your diet and of your blood. When your diet is high in cholesterol your liver partially compensates for this by manufacturing less and when your diet is low in this substance it will be produced by your liver. Eating large amounts of foods that contain saturated fatty acids will increase your blood cholesterol level and eating foods that contain unsaturated fatty acids (margarine in place of butter for example) or taking a large amount of niacin will decrease it.

A high level will not of itself cause any symptoms but over a period of years it may lead to coronary heart disease. The normal level is usually given as 150 to 280 but, to be on the safe side, you should try to keep it under 220.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Your Own Flavor Twists Make Canned Chicken Stew a Sunday Supper Special

A quick meal that qualifies as a "special" meal—that's often the type you're looking for when it's time to prepare a Sunday night supper. So here's a simple-to-fix meal that you'll discover is a perfect way to end a lazy weekend afternoon.

This meal centers on Mandarin Chicken Stew. The main dish starts with canned chicken stew, the clue to ease in meal preparation. Just open the can of stew; you have a combination of generous chunks of chicken and colorful vegetables in a smooth, flavorful sauce. This home-style stew is all ready for your own bright touch of mandarin oranges and a hint of nutmeg. In minutes, the stew heats; then garnish with walnuts and serve. A mix from the cupboard shelf makes the perfect go-with—tempting gingerbread, served hot with plenty of whipped butter. Add a crisp cabbage and green pepper salad to your menu. If dessert is a must at your house, warm canned apple pie filling to serve topped with a dollop of vanilla ice cream and a sprinkle of cinnamon.

MANDARIN CHICKEN STEW
1 can (10 ounces) chicken stew
1/2 cup mandarin orange segments
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
Walnuts
In saucepan, combine all ingredients except walnuts. Heat; stir now and then. Garnish with walnuts. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

Big Thrill Came Over the Arkansas

By ALVIN SCHAY
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—I've crossed the Atlantic in a giant four-engine airliner, spanned the English Channel in a two-engine D C-3 and flown over Missouri's Lake of the Ozarks in a single-engine plane.

But my biggest thrill in the air came Tuesday, hovering above the Arkansas River here in a helicopter.

In the process of doing a story for the Associated Press on the state's only helicopter business, I got an invitation to go up in one of the whirlybirds.

Bill Nelson, office manager at Memphis for Helicopters Inc., took me on my first helicopter flight.

The rotors of machine whipped dirt from a parking lot near the river and suddenly we were aloft. My first thought was that there wasn't a heck of a lot between me and Mother Earth.

I didn't realize how fast we were climbing until I looked to the right and noticed we were well above the top of the State capitol. I called my reaction surprise, others might call it fear.

Bill was telling me how the helicopter operated and I was busy scanning what was several hundred feet below.

He told me how to hook up a metal road with a grip on its top, and when I had done so he said "fly it."

This time I won't quibble over words—I was scared.

I must have "frozen" because the helicopter started leaning way over to the left, and, I thought, heading riverward.

"Just move it anyway you want it to go," he said.

The way I wanted things to go was for him to put his hand back on the stick.

Finally, I got my right arm and my brain sufficiently coordinated to move the stick to the right. In no time, we were leaning way to the right.

"Sensitive control," I mumbled.

After several right-to-left gyrations, which gradually lessened the helicopter got steady and I started feeling proud—until I noticed Bill was once again holding the control stick on his side.

"Could you turn one of these things upside down?" I asked.

"Yes," Bill said.

"That wouldn't be too good, would it?"

"No," he replied.

I was very thankful that he had hold of that stick.

So thankful that I let go of the one on my side.

Bill landed the bird on a large sandbar and showed me how it could "skid" along the sand. We went up again, and he started talking about how little space was needed to land. I saw he was looking at a small sandbar.

I was quite willing to concede that he could land on that little patch of sand, but remained silent as he headed for it.

There was really nothing to it, and I agreed when we were again soaring above the river that it didn't take much space to land.

"See that dike down there?" he asked.

What I saw was a long mound of dirt and rock, the top of which looked to be no more than two feet wide.

"Yes, rather attractive little dike," I said, hoping he had no ideas about putting down there.

He did.

I pulled the safety belt tighter around my middle, hoping it would be binding enough to bring a little color back to my face.

As we got closer, I noticed the dike was wider than two feet—about eight to 10 feet, I figured after we landed.

Up again and over a nearby residential area, where I happen to live. The old neighborhood looked a lot different, but I spotted my house right away—it was the one with all the leaves in the backyard.

Back to earth where we started, and I got out of the helicopter and shook hands with Bill and thanked him for the ride.

I don't know why my legs were shaking knees with each other.

Brave Rain to Attend Services

WASHINGTON (AP)—President and Mrs. Johnson went out in a heavy rainstorm Sunday to attend 11 o'clock services at the National City Christian Church.

Reason Ships Are Riding High

DETROIT (AP)—Ships are riding high on the Great Lakes, and there's a reason according to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The corps said water levels on the lakes are up—from a few inches to a couple of feet—compared with a year ago.

Soft custards, delicately flavored and chilled are delicious served over fruits, puddings or sponge cake.

If you have never tried them, now is the time to add this experience to your enjoyment of wholesome food.

VANILLA COCONUT SOFT CUSTARD

- | | |
|-------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| 1/4 cup sugar | 2 cups milk |
| 1/4 teaspoon salt | 1 teaspoon vanilla |
| 3 large eggs, slightly beaten | 1/2 cup shredded moist coconut |

Mix sugar with salt in a saucepan or in the top part of a double boiler. Blend in eggs. Stir in 1/4-cup cold milk, heat the remaining milk and add to the mixture. Cook over low heat or over hot water until the custard coats a metal spoon, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add pure vanilla extract and coconut. Cool. Serve as dessert in sherbet glasses, topped with cream, if desired. Or, serve over fruits in season such as sliced bananas, stewed apples, stewed or baked pears or sliced oranges. Garnish with whipped cream.

YIELD: Approximately 2 1/4 cups.

- | | |
|-------------------|--|
| 1 1/2 cups milk | 2 oz. (2 squares) semisweet baking chocolate, melted |
| 3 large egg yolks | 1 teaspoon vanilla |
| 1/4 cup sugar | Lady fingers or strips of sponge cake |
| 1 teaspoon flour | |
| 1/4 teaspoon salt | |

Scald milk in a 2-quart saucepan. Combine egg yolks, sugar, flour and salt. Add to milk. Stir and cook over low heat or hot water (not boiling) until the mixture coats a metal spoon. Remove custard from heat and stir in melted chocolate and pure vanilla extract. Chill. Serve in sherbet glasses, each lined with 3 lady fingers or 3 strips of sponge cake.

YIELD: 4 servings.

Salmon Rounds

Simple meals are often the best, like our basic wrapped special Salmon Rounds. Steaming servings of Salmon Rounds team up in a hearty Lenten menu.

With plenty of appetite appeal, these dry-broiled rolls boast salmon, celery, onion, a touch of lemon juice and other seasoning to make an especially flavorful main dish. Add crisp relishes, a vegetable and your favorite dessert to the menu.

To save time, bake the bread with your dried, outstanding flour. You're assured of baking success by using softening flour already contains the proper blend of leavening and salt. Nutritionally, it's important too as a valuable source of calcium, iron and three essential B vitamins.

SALMON ROUNDS

4 to 6 servings

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1 can (8 oz.) salmon, drained and flaked | 1/4 teaspoon salt |
| 1/4 cup dry bread crumbs | 1 egg, beaten |
| 1/4 cup chopped celery | 1/4 cup shortening |
| 1/4 cup chopped onion | 1/2 cups sifted enriched self-rising flour |
| 1 tablespoon lemon juice | 2 to 1 1/2 cup milk |

Combine salmon, bread crumbs, celery, onion, lemon juice and salt. Stir in egg, set aside. Put shortening into flour until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Blend in enriched milk to make a soft dough. Turn out dough on lightly floured board or pastry. Roll and knead gently 30 seconds. Roll out to 1/8-inch-thick. Spread salmon mixture evenly over dough. Roll up gently, roll fashion. Seal edges securely. Cut into 1-inch slices. Bake on sheet, 1/2 inch from bottom, in 350° F. oven 20 to 30 minutes, or until golden brown. Serve hot with tartar sauce, creamed vegetable sauce.

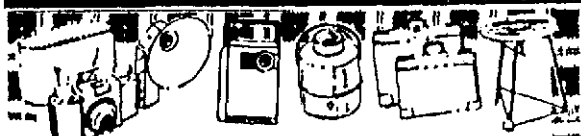

*If you don't sift and in the absence of self-rising flour, spoon flour directly from container into a mixing bowl, level off then remove two level tablespoons according to USDA room recommendations.

Needless Debate

A Texas doctor says that women who wiggle when they walk are affecting the motion. An actress fires back that they are not affecting at all — that the effect is natural. And all over the country, for editorial writers and columnists are rushing to their typewriters so that they might be first with the clever analysis. Ours is simple. The whole thing seems the mootest point of the week. Who cares? Affected or natural, we find it all very effective. — Oak Ridge (Tenn.) Oak Ridger

Snow Philosophy

Ecstasy is the fellow with tire chains who drives blithely by the poor devil without them when the ice and snow are terrible. It's also the fellow without chains the first day the streets are clear as he buzzes by all those cars that still have them. — Spartanburg (S.C.) Herald

New Arithmetic

President Johnson's money wizards have toiled mightily under his orders to produce a budget which makes everybody happy. After one struggle by the Budget Bureau the experts adjourned. $100 Million for Indian Economy

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and top Indian officials began an intensive round of conferences today that were expected to culminate in an announcement of a $100-million economic loan to India. Humphrey, before leaving Karachi Wednesday, announced a $50-million loan for neighboring Pakistan. U.S. aid programs to both countries were suspended when they went to war over Kashmir last September, but they have been getting emergency help because of acute food shortages resulting from drought.

The vice president met first with Indian Finance Minister Chandra Chudhuri, Food Minister Chidambaram Subramaniam and Planning Minister Asoka Mehta. Economic and development aid to India was believed to be a main topic of discussion. During a tour of farm development projects and a new agricultural university in India's Punjab State Wednesday, Humphrey said the United States "is ready and willing, in fact, we look for the opportunity to share" American abundance.

He told Indian farm researchers: "What India wants and what India will receive is the help of technical experts, of seed, of equipment, of the resources that are required to build a modern agricultural society or a modern agricultural plant."

Ship Fire Leaves 15 Workers Dead

NAGOYA, Japan (AP)—Fire that gutted a new 33,000-ton Japanese tanker today killed at least 15 dockyard workmen and another is missing, the Maritime Safety Agency announced. Two workmen escaped when the fire broke out aboard the Bridgestone Maru. It was brought under control about five hours later.

The tanker was launched Dec. 25 and was to be completed by the end of March.

Taylor Defends Johnson Policy in Viet Nam

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor defends President Johnson's course in Viet Nam in a public hearing today before the Senate fires off a round of blistering debate on Southeast Asia policies.

Taylor former ambassador to Saigon and a presidential adviser, faces vigorous questioning in a televised session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on such issues as the bombing of North Viet Nam, possible escalation of the ground war and the threat of Chinese intervention.

He is expected to support strongly President Johnson's contention the United States has undertaken a "job of liberation" in South Viet Nam that must succeed to prevent the spread of Communist terror elsewhere.

Johnson told an Atlantic City, N.J., audience Wednesday night that the Viet Cong's strategy of terror "will spread elsewhere if it succeeds in South Viet Nam."

"If the takeover of Viet Nam can be achieved by a highly organized Communist force employing violence against a civilian population, it can be achieved in another country at another time and with even greater cost to freedom," he said.

Taylor is on record as saying that U.S. bombing has limited the ability of North Viet Nam to infiltrate the South.

He advocated continued bombing at a "controlled, deliberate rate." He has contended that the limited warfare being carried on now is not likely to bring any military confrontation with China as many of the President's critics fear.

Taylor also has said the complete surrender or destruction of the Communist Viet Cong is not a prerequisite for a cease-fire and negotiations.

These and other issues figured in Senate debate which erupted Wednesday over a $4.8-billion authorization bill covering part of the $12.3-billion package of emergency funds for Viet Nam. Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, urged his colleagues to pass the bill without any riders which might either caution the President against expanding the war or might offer congressional approval of Johnson's policies.

Saying he could come up with no alternative to the course Johnson is pursuing, Russell said he thinks critics "have not given the President and the secretaries of state and defense the credit they deserve for the earnestness, the soul-searching and the vigor with which they have attempted to find a solution leading to peace with honor."

250,000 Students Out With Virus

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The virus that has kept 250,000 Los Angeles children out of school has been identified by the California Department of Health as Asian flu.

Doctors at the department's virus laboratory made the identification Wednesday. The bug causes headaches and stomach upsets of a sort more intense than ordinary flu. It first came to California in 1957.

In the past two weeks, the strain has caused absenteeism to reach as high as 25 per cent in some school districts. A high number of teachers also have been hit.

The Los Angeles County Health Department has labeled the outbreak an epidemic, but has made no plans to close schools where about 530,000 pupils remain.

Sees Population Gain to 200,000

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Pine Bluff Planning Director Robert Mashburn has completed a street and land use plan which predicts that the city will have a population of 200,000 by the year 2000.

Mashburn said the 34-year plan includes 111 miles of city expressways, three interstate highway routes and a highway bypass. The plan also predicts a growth in area from 16 square miles to more than 51 square miles.

Pine Bluff's population was 122,600 in the last official census.

FAREWELL FROM AN OLD FRIEND—President Johnson had special words for May Craig, long a fixture of the Washington press corps, at a farewell reception marking her retirement. Mrs. Craig, known nationally through frequent appearances on television news interview programs, was a capital correspondent for Maine newspapers for 35 years.

Diseases of Heart Are Big Killer

Diseases of the heart and blood vessels were responsible for 35 per cent of the deaths in Hempstead County during 1965. This was disclosed today by Mrs. Elvora Ridgill, local Chairman of the 1966 Heart Fund Campaign. Our County's percentage of heart deaths compares to the national toll of 54 per cent attributable to heart diseases.

Mrs. Ridgill said there is but one way through which the individual can act to reduce the toll in death, disability, suffering and economic cost, namely, by contributing to your Heart Association for its program of research, education and community service.

"The massive research and supporting programs which began just after the first Heart Fund Campaign in 1949 are now starting to pay off in life-saving advances," she said. "Since 1950 we have seen a decline of 15 percent in the cardiovascular mortality rate for those aged below 65, and an even more drastic reduction in the rate applying to children and young adults. There was an overall decline of 7 1/2 per cent in the cardiovascular death rate, 1950-1962 for American males aged 45-64."

The Heart Fund Campaign will reach its high point during the six day period preceding February 27 when the local Heart Fund Sunday volunteers will join nearly 2 million others throughout the nation to visit neighbors, to distribute literature on how to reduce every family's risk of heart attack, and also to receive Heart Fund Contributions.

Don't Depend on American Food

JAIPUR, India (AP)—A woman member of the Indian Parliament denounced Indian dependence upon American food and economic aid today, charging that Americans "are interested only in what they can get out of us."

"Are we going to stay in bondage to America and the West?" asked Mrs. Sharda Mukherjee during debate on a food policy resolution before the executive committee of India's ruling Congress party. The committee is preparing resolutions for the annual party convention opening Saturday.

Asserting that India is not utilizing its vast manpower, she proposed formation of a huge "land army" to make India self-sufficient in food.

PTA Plans Founder's Day Feb. 22

J. L. Ussery, coordinator of special projects for the Texarkana, Ark., public schools, will be the guest speaker at the PTA Founder's Day on Tuesday, February 22 at 3:30 p.m. in the Garland School auditorium. He assumed his current duties on February 1 and deals with programs in elementary and secondary schools.

He is president elect of the Miller County Education Association, a past area director of the Arkansas Elementary School Principals Association, and a member of the Arkansas Education Association. He is past president of the Texarkana Civitan Club, past president of the Miller County Teachers Federal Credit Union, vice chairman of the Miller County P T A Council, parliamentarian of College Hill School P T A, and Sunday School superintendent of Immanuel Baptist Church. He and his wife are the parents of two daughters, aged 2 and 4.

As coordinator of special projects, Mr. Ussery has a great variety of duties ranging from directing inservice training for teachers to coordinating services to economically deprived children. His message will be of interest to all, and schools throughout Hempstead County are invited to attend. A Founder's Day gift offering will be taken.

Theater at Crossett Gets Loan

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Industrial Development Commission approved Wednesday a $78,400 loan for a drive-in theater at Crossett, after Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett ruled that such a theater was an industry.

Carl C. Hinkle Jr., executive director of the AIDC, said his staff didn't recommend the approval. He said a drive-in movie was not listed in the guide to industries used by the AIDC staff.

The loan is from the Small Business Administration, and was announced Feb. 1 by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark. He said the 15-year loan would mean 10 new jobs.

Wrenco, Inc., of Little Rock received the loan. It said it would spend $98,000 on the theater.

Pressure Kept on Cong But Mines Take Toll

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. and South Korean troops pushing on with Operation White Wing 300 miles north of Saigon struck the Viet Cong in four separate sectors today and claimed 80 killed.

The Communists had their winning in Saigon.

Two Claymore mines set by terrorists shortly after noon near the headquarters of the Vietnamese joint general staff killed 12 Vietnamese and wounded 60. Six of the dead and 44 of the wounded were military personnel.

Bad weather returned to North Viet Nam but U.S. Air Force and Navy pilots flew 27 missions Wednesday against bridges around Vinh and Dong Hoi and storage areas south of Dien Bien Phu. Spokesmen said the weather prevented assessment of damage.

The United States acted to put more juice into the civil programs emphasized by President Johnson at the Honolulu conference. Deputy U.S. Ambassador William Porter was named to boss all American aspects of the largely stalled rural pacification program.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said in a statement: "We are determined that this program for peace and progress shall be carried forward with all the energy and skill of a fully coordinated U.S. mission effort, always with full recognition that the basic task of nation building here belongs to the people of Viet Nam and their government."

On the Operation White Wing front, troops of the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airborne, Division continued their cleanup of the An Lao Valley and were attacked about 7 miles southwest of Bong Son just before breaking their overnight bivouac.

The Viet Cong left 37 dead behind after a half hour firefight. U.S. casualties were said to be light.

Another prong of the 1st Cavalry tangled with a unit of about 150 guerrillas 12 miles south of Bong Son. The action was continuing and there were no immediate reports from the field.

A third column in the same area jumped an enemy platoon of about 2 and killed 6. The U.S. troops reported capturing two heavy mortars, three recoilless rifles, one rocket launcher and eight individual weapons.

The whole operation has scooped up about 250 highly prized guns around the An Lao Valley.

Farther south in Korea troops ran into an estimated 70 Viet Cong 20 miles southwest of Qui Nhon. Artillery supported a two-hour firefight and spokesmen said the Viet Cong left 37 dead and five weapons when they withdrew. Three guerrillas were captured.

On the coast near Tuy Hoa, the 101st Airborne Division continued its operation to secure 30,000 more tons of rice being harvested.

The Viet Cong retaliated again with terrorism. A mine blew up a horse cart, killing the driver and his horse about 5 miles west of Tuy Hoa.

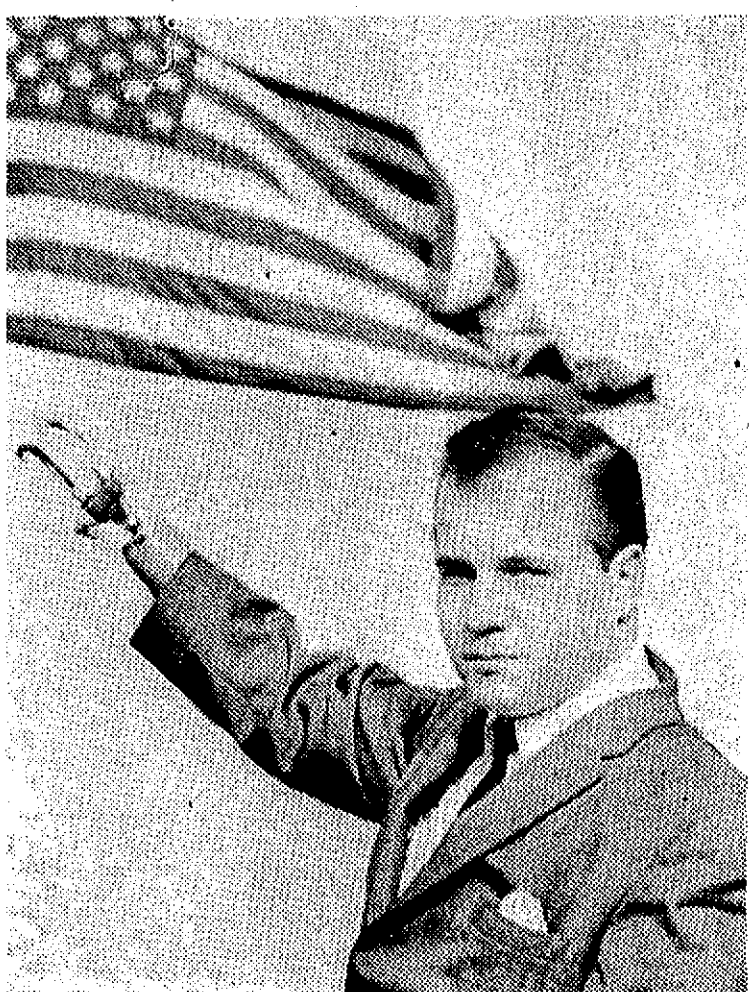

Alliance Prepares for Speakers

As previously announced Dr. Ed Wheat will fly to Hope Monday and speak at a Union Meeting Monday night at 7:30 at the First Baptist Church. He asks that everyone bring a Bible.

Robert Gladney will fly to Fort Worth Tuesday and meet the professional football player, Tony Romeo, at three-thirty and fly him to Hope for the Tuesday night meeting. Lenwood Smith of Little Rock will speak at the Men's Breakfast Tuesday morning at 7:30.

David Pearson will be the songleader and soloist at the Monday night meeting and Jerry King of Camden will perform the same service Tuesday evening. A union choir will assist with the music.

The members of the Hope Ministerial Alliance believe we will have a great time of spiritual blessing. They ask that all Christians pray earnestly for God's blessing and come with high expectations of the outpouring of God's Spirit.

VIET NAM VOLUNTEER—John Slezak of Detroit, who lost an arm in Korea, says he'll seek combat service in South Viet Nam as a private citizen, joining any fighting force that will take him, after being refused re-enlistment in the Army. Slezak says he's renouncing disability payments of $86.76 a month and free medical privileges.

Students Say Response Inadequate

MARVELL, Ark. (AP) — A civil rights worker said Wednesday that the Marvell School superintendent made an inadequate response to demands of Negroes for changes at the all-Negro Turner Elementary School.

A boycott at the school was in its third day.

Howard Himmelbaum, field secretary for the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee, has been working with a committee of Negro parents of children who attend school at Turner.

Among the demands were the establishment of a special summer school program for pre-school, elementary and secondary school pupils and foreign language instruction for all Negro Tate High School.

Also the committee sought the dismissal of the principal at Turner and asked that teachers who lack college degrees not be rehired.

Supt. C. G. Cowser said that in the first two cases all available funds were either obligated, or required by law, for other purposes. Other factors figures in his reply on these points, Cowser said.

The School Board rejected the dismissal demand, and Cowser noted that teachers without college degrees are allowed to teach under an exception in the certification requirements.

The state has one dog racing track, at West Memphis.

Arkansan Dies in Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department said Wednesday that Hentry H. Measley of Clinton, Ark., a Navy aviation structural mechanic, had died of non-hostile cause in Viet Nam.

Killed in action, the department said, where two private first class: John W. Houston of College Station and Ernest Watson, a native of Helena.

Dog Track Law Ruled Valid

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Circuit Judge Tom Gentry ruled valid Wednesday a law which requires a statewide election on any proposed dog racing tracks in the state.

He was ruling on Act 7, passed in a special legislative session last November. It was challenged by the Spa Kennel Club, which had received a temporary dog track franchise from the state Racing Commission before the act was adopted at the urging of Gov. Orval Faubus.

The temporary franchise was revoked.

Gentry said the act applied to the Spa Kennel Club.

Before passage of the law, a dog track could be established with approval of voters in the county where it would be located.

The state has one dog racing track, at West Memphis.

Russia Says U.S. Violated A-Test Treaty

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet government charged today that flights of American bombers carrying nuclear weapons violate the 1963 partial test ban treaty. However, the Soviets made no threat to withdraw from the treaty.

The Soviet charge was made at the 17-nation disarmament conference. There was no immediate response from the American delegation.

A memorandum read in the conference by Soviet Delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin said the collision and crash of an American B52 nuclear bomber in Spain last month led to radioactive contamination of the coastal waters of Spain and the Mediterranean.

"It may be said that this was merely an accident. But the Soviet government asks the question: What kind of a policy is this which allows such accident to happen?"

"The Soviet government has warned the United States repeatedly on the danger of such flights, but the United States did not heed our warnings. What happened over the coast of Spain shows that our warnings were well ground."

"Clearly it is necessary to stop the flights of planes carrying nuclear bombs outside the national borders."

"The Soviet government hopes that drawing the attention of the United States to these facts will lead to the termination of such flights."

Following the collision of the U.S. B52 bomber and a jet tanker over the southern coast of Spain, only three of the bomber's four nuclear bombs were recovered. A search is still being made for the fourth in the Mediterranean off the coast as well as on land.

However, the U.S. ambassador to Spain, Angier Biddle Duke, said on Feb. 3 after a visit to the area that U.S. special forces were taking water samples continuously in the search area and had found no signs of radioactivity.

U.S. Air Force officials had said previously that there was no danger of the missing bomb exploding because it was not armed.

Phillips Co. Object of Complaint

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The regional Anti-Poverty Office here said Wednesday that it is investigating a complaint that there were irregularities in a Phillips County, Ark., anti-poverty program.

The district supervisor for Arkansas and Louisiana, Herb Tyson, said that no funds are being withheld from the Community Action Program in Phillips County pending completion of his investigation.

Tyson said the complaint, signed by more than 50 persons, claims ineligible persons were placed on a ballot to select representatives for the county community action agency.

He said $15,312 in program development funds has been allocated to the agency.

Tyson said Negro groups have charged that some of the persons listed on the ballot were not residents of Phillips County.

The director of the county agency, Bill Menden of Helena, said the agency had gathered 175 to 200 names from various sources as potential members of committees to set up anti-poverty programs. He said ballots were arranged by communities and sent to economically deprived persons, asking them to vote for five persons from their community out of 10 or more on the ballot.

Barbecue Those Lamb Shanks

Feast on flavor with individual servings of lamb shanks braised in barbecue sauce, then serve on a fluffy bed of hot rice. Surprise the family with a novel dinner entree, just when they begin to think they can guess what you're going to have.

Barbecued Lamb Shanks have the flavor everyone likes as well as the color appeal that only ruddy-red sauce, well browned meat and snowy mounds of white rice can give.

Lamb shanks, once called trotters, contain shank bones, layers of meat, all covered with the thin paper-like substance called "fell" which is associated with lamb. This "fell" need not be removed, states meat authority Reba Staggs. It helps the cut keep its shape during the long, slow cooking period.

Barbecued Lamb Shanks
6 lamb shanks
1/2 cup enriched flour

- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 3 tablespoons lard or drippings
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1 cup catchup
- 3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
- 1 cup water
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon red pepper
- 3 cups hot, cooked rice

Dredge lamb shanks in seasoned flour. Brown slowly in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Mix remaining ingredients and pour over lamb shanks. Cover and simmer until tender, about 2 hours. Serve over rice. 6 servings.

Containing China Real U. S. Aim?

By RONALD I. DEUTSCH
NEW YORK (AP) — Is Communist China really a threat to the United States? Should she be contained in Asia, and if so, does a policy of containment require absolute U. S. opposition to Communist regimes in Asia? These were the questions four speakers sought to answer Monday night at a symposium on "Containing China" in an effort to shed light on U. S. policy in Asia.

A U. S. senator criticized the United States for pursuing what he called a policy to isolate China.

A professor said Washington has become "obsessed" with the idea of containing China but doubted that she was as much of a threat as U. S. policymakers believed.

A former presidential consultant took issue with this view and said the United States has been more preoccupied with the expansion plans of the Soviet Union than those of Red China.

Another professor said that the problem of Chinese power is still remote but cautioned that the United States should preserve the status quo and "hold the line in Asia."

While the participants were generally critical of U. S. policy in Asia, they differed on what this policy is or should be. Nor was there any firm agreement on how seriously the United States should take the Chinese threat.

The symposium, sponsored by Commentary magazine, a monthly publication, was held at the Institute of Human Relations, and featured Sen. George McGovern, D-S. D.; Bernard B. Fall, author on Viet Nam and professor of international relations at Howard University in Washington, D. C.; John P. Roche, political science professor at Brandeis University in Waltham, Mass.; and Richard N. Goodwin, former special consultant to President John F. Kennedy and President John-

The following are excerpts from the symposium:
Goodwin: "The United States does have a China policy, but it's so sensitive we're not able to tell it to anybody."

"Probably it is true that policies like containment of China emerge out of conflict and experience and are not imposed on a situation in advance. There has not been the evolution of a consistent policy towards China in the period we're going through. In the main we do want to keep China from absorbing all of Asia."

McGovern: "I think our greatest interest in Asia today is the prevention of a war with China. A military conflict between the United States and mainland China is the worst possible catastrophe that could develop in the rest of this century. The prevention of such a war ought to be the number one task of American statesmanship. It's desirable to prevent Chinese military power from expanding across the face of Asia. I don't regard that as the principal challenge that China presents to the world today."

"The greatest danger will come from a continuance of a policy that attempts to isolate China diplomatically from contacts either with ourselves or other great powers. I personally think this is a dangerous and ill-advised course."

"The course we're following is one that is calculated to bring out the worst features of the Chinese government. If we decide on a policy of containment it should be a broadly based policy that doesn't rely excessively on military power."

Fall: "Today you have what might be called the capture of Washington by Chinese propaganda. Washington publicly operates on the assumption that the Chinese are very dangerous people likely to overrun all of Asia — but the fact is that the Chinese have failed to effectively intervene against the United States in Asia."

"China is afraid of American retaliation. I do not doubt for an instant that the Chinese have, of course, objectives in Southeast Asia. They may beyond a certain point intervene in Viet Nam. But I don't quite think that the Chinese are ready at the moment to do this."

Roche: "I don't know of any serious observer of the war in Viet Nam who has argued that this is a Chinese operation. I know a number of people who believe that what you're dealing with here is an indigenous North Vietnamese Communist imperialism, which would be backed by the Chinese presumably if the United States expanded the war on the ground."

"At the moment the problem of Chinese power is a remote problem, probably 10 to 15 years away. In the meantime, all kinds of things can happen. The bureaucratic complexion of the Chinese government can change. There are infinite potentialities for the possibility of self-destruction on the part of the Chinese. The communists are better at making big mistakes than we are so we should stick to making small mistakes and let them make the big mistakes. We need a policy of playing for time and holding on."

Viet Nam Is War of Many Conflicts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson has referred to the fighting in Viet Nam as a war of a thousand conflicts. To many Americans one of the most complex of these is whether any fruitful negotiations can be held without dealing directly with the Viet Cong.

Diplomatically speaking, the United States regards the government of North Viet Nam as the only real key to peace. Officials say arguments for negotiating with the Viet Cong — the guerrilla organization in the south — are based on less than facts.

Whether to include the political arm of the Viet Cong, the National Liberation Front (NLF), in any peace talks came up last week at the President's Honolulu meeting with South Vietnamese leaders.

Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky was asked if it was correct to say he was unwilling to "sit across the table" from the Viet Cong in negotiations. He said this was a correct assessment. Much world-wide attention then was given to his statement as a flat refusal to negotiate with the NLF.

Gave Flat Rejection
Several times earlier in the same meeting with reporters, Ky tried to avoid a flat reply to similar questions, but when it was put up to him as a matter of Saigon having to negotiate directly with the Viet Cong, he had no choice but to give a flat rejection.

Why? The view is that the NLF represents no government or constituted authority but was created by Hanoi under Communist domination. Furthermore, the United States position is that it will not recognize the Viet Cong as an independent party to negotiations.

Skeleton in Closet of Space Deal

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration generally has an excellent record launching spacecraft and making them work. But there's a skeleton in the closet: the hapless Surveyor program whose goal is to soft-land an unmanned vehicle on the moon.

The recent gentle landing of the Soviet Union's Luna 9 on the lunar surface focused attention on Surveyor — a program which a congressional subcommittee recently termed "one of the least orderly and most poorly executed of NASA's projects."

Had Surveyor done what it started out to do, the first craft would have been on the moon in 1963 and the Soviet Union would not have reaped the propaganda value of achieving this historic feat first while a similar American attempt floundered.

The first Surveyor now is scheduled to rocket toward the moon in May, but chances of a successful soft landing on the initial attempt are not great. Project officials noted the complexity of the mission and the fact the Russians failed at least four times before recording a success.

Not only is the program three year behind schedule, its cost has spiraled out of this world. Originally conceived in 1960 as a $50-million program for seven launches, the price tag already has reached $350 million and is expected to surpass $725 million by the time the presently planned 10 launches are completed.

To find out what went wrong, the NASA oversight subcommittee of the House Space Committee recently conducted a probe. The group was headed by Rep. Joseph Karth, D-Minn.

The result was a blistering 35-page attack on both government and industry management.

In a nutshell it said: "A project as troublesome as Surveyor demands vigorous centralized management and effective control from the top. From all appearances, these important elements have been largely missing right from the start."

The report said program management has been strengthened in recent months, most technical problems seem to be solved and the first Surveyor now appears ready for flight in May.

The Karth subcommittee dealt mainly with the spacecraft. But the program's difficulties also involved the launch vehicle, the Atlas-Centaur rocket.

In 1960 no U.S. rocket was powerful enough to send the 2,150-pound Surveyor to the moon. So a new stage, the hydrogen-powered Centaur, was developed for use with the Atlas.

High-energy liquid hydrogen was an untried rocket fuel and engineers had trouble taming this frigid fluid which must be kept at 423 degrees below zero, even in flight.

In theory, one could hardly disagree with Dr. Eckstein's view that inflation needn't happen. Actually many do disagree, and some of them are economists every bit as distinguished as he.

One of the dissenters took part in this week's panel debate with Dr. Eckstein. He was Arthur F. Burns, who headed the President's economic advisers in the Dwight D. Eisenhower administration.

Said Dr. Burns, in effect: The tax-boosting and credit-squeezing are correct moves, but they come too late to offset the mistake already made.

"We've been manufacturing money at a very rapid rate, and that's what has been pushing prices up," he said.

And the President's plan to wipe out the inflationary deficit in federal cash accounts is fine, too, except that this fiscal year, starting next July 1. The big inflationary pressure of increased spending is right now, and the next several months.

What of the wage-price guidelines, then? "They are being extensively ignored or defied," said Dr. Burns. And: "They are rapidly losing their voluntary character. I fear there will be agitation for a price review board, and a wage review board — if not for outright controls on wages and prices."

That brought the discussion to the point on which all could agree: Nobody wants mandatory price and wage ceilings.

Eighth Child on Valentine's Day

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit woman gave birth to her eighth child on Valentine's Day.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Glenn Valentine briefly considered naming the 8-pound, 5-ounce boy Valentino, but settled on Kevin.

Instant Apple Flakes

Q—My daughter's home economics teacher told her about a new instant applesauce on the market. Where can I find any?

A—Just keep a lookout at your grocery store for apple flakes that mix instantly in water to make sauce, advises the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture. These new uses for apples are made possible by a process developed by the department's scientists. The flakes have already been tried commercially in dessert and cake mixes. They may later be used in apple butter, confections and baked goods. They help keep cakes moist as well as give a delicious apple flavor.

Q—Are shrimp sold according to size?

A—Yes. These are the different counts, that is, the number of shrimp per pound:

15 and under per pound 26 to 30 per pound

16 to 20 per pound 31 to 42 per pound

21 to 25 per pound

Squash Custard

by Gaynor Maddox
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Maddox

Desserts with a slight Yankee accent are popular in all parts of our well-fed land. Traditionally, New England prides itself on squash and apples. Today these products are most often sold in convenience form, either canned or frozen. These examples give appetizing explanation.

PILGRIMS' SQUASH CUSTARD

- | | |
|--|------------------------------|
| 1 cup granulated sugar | 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon |
| 1 package (12 ounces) frozen mashed squash, thawed | 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg |
| 3/4 cup firmly packed light brown sugar | 1 1/2 cups light cream |
| 3 eggs, well beaten | Sweetened whipped cream |
| 1/4 teaspoon salt | Blanched slivered almonds |
| 2 teaspoons grated orange rind | |

In a skillet over very low heat, melt sugar without stirring until it is pale golden brown. Pour caramelized sugar into a slightly warmed 1-quart baking dish (not a tin-lined dish) and rotate dish until inside is coated. Mix squash, sugar, eggs, salt, orange rind and spices. Gradually stir in cream. Pour mixture into caramel-lined dish. Bake in a preheated slow oven (325 degrees) for 50 to 60 minutes, or until a silver knife inserted in center comes out clean. Cool and then chill. When ready to serve, run a sharp knife around edge to loosen and invert on a serving platter. Accompany with sweetened whipped cream and a sprinkling of slivered almonds. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

APPLE ALMOND PARFAIT

- | | |
|--------------------------------|-----------------------------|
| 2 cups canned applesauce | 2 cups milk |
| 2 tablespoons cinnamon candies | 3 egg yolks |
| 1/4 cup sugar | 1/4 teaspoon almond extract |
| 2 teaspoons cornstarch | 1 egg white |
| 1/4 teaspoon salt | 2 tablespoons sugar |

Combine applesauce and cinnamon candies; let stand in refrigerator several hours, or until candies have dissolved. Stir. Combine 1/4-cup sugar, cornstarch and salt in top of double boiler, gradually add milk. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened. Beat egg yolks; gradually add hot milk mixture. Return to double boiler and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and coats spoon. Cool. Add almond extract. Arrange alternate layers of applesauce and custard in parfait glasses, ending with custard. Beat egg white stiff, gradually add remaining 2 tablespoons sugar, beating constantly. Use as garnish on parfaits topped by teaspoon of applesauce. Makes 6 servings.

Strawberry Ginger Bars

Milk and cookies always find favor. These fruit-filled Strawberry Ginger Bars prove the point. You'll love these "sugar and spice" treats, so will the hungry "after-school" crowd.

Easy to make, Strawberry Ginger Bars call for a true convenience product, enriched self-rising flour. Its preblended proportions of leavening and salt save you extra baking steps, help assure delicious cookies every time.

And the word "enriched" tells you self-rising baked products contain three essential B vitamins, thiamine, niacin and riboflavin, plus the minerals calcium and iron all necessary for youngsters and "grown-ups" alike.

3 1/2 dozen cookies

- | | |
|--|----------------------------------|
| 3 cups sifted enriched self-rising flour | 1/2 cup melted shortening or oil |
| 1 teaspoon cinnamon | |
| 1 teaspoon ground ginger | 1/2 cup light molasses |
| 1 egg, beaten | 1/4 cup strawberry preserves |

Sift together flour, cinnamon and ginger into mixing bowl. Blend together egg, shortening or oil and molasses. Add liquid all at once to flour mixture and blend. Knead dough gently in bowl until smooth, divide in half. Roll out half on ungreased baking sheet to 12 x 11-inch rectangle. Spread preserves evenly over dough. Roll out remaining dough on wax paper to 12 x 11-inch rectangle. Invert dough over preserves and remove paper. Bake in preheated 350° oven 15 to 12 minutes, or until lightly browned around edges. Immediately cut into 2-inch squares and remove from baking sheet to wire rack.

If you don't sift and in the absence of other directions, spoon flour directly from container into a one-cup dry measure, level off, then remove two level tablespoonfuls, according to FDA recommendations.

Old Harlem Comes to Television

By JOAN CROSBY

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — It took Harry Belafonte exactly 23 minutes to sell CBS-TV his idea for an all-Negro musical special.

Several years ago, Harry had two critically acclaimed specials on CBS. But the sponsor tried, on the second show, to exercise "artistic control." After that, without a sponsor, Harry couldn't get a third special on the air.

Phrases like "resistance in certain parts of the country" were heard.

Now the handsome singer is negotiating with CBS for several specials over the next few years, on some of which he would perform and all of which he would produce.

He is the executive producer of The Strollin' '20s, to be seen on CBS-TV on Monday, Feb. 21. He appears only briefly, at the opening of the show. As a producer, he has lined up talent like Sidney Poitier, Diahann Carroll, Sammy Davis Jr., Nipsey Russell, Duke Ellington, George Kirby, Joe Williams and Gloria Lynne.

The show has been written by author Langston Hughes, and is a warm, light-hearted look at the happy-go-lucky populace of Harlem in the '20s.

"This show is not to be treated as a sociological study," Belafonte points out. "That would be wrong for the mood. We are in a time period when entertainment is demanded. So, in the show, we are attempting to remind viewers of a large community of great performers of that day."

There is dialect comedy in the show, "because our humor does have dialect." There is even a chance that some of the characters in the show may be called stereotypes. Asked if the cry of stereotype would have been raised had the show been produced by a non-Negro, Belafonte smiled and said, "There are certain advantages to being in a highly specialized position." Stereotypes are based on truths, he says, "but truths which have been lifted out of context and used to our discredit. It's one thing to hear of the Irish as drunks and the Jewish as moneylenders, but it's another thing to read Sean O'Casey and Sholem Aleichem. It's one thing to see the Negro in the context of a great struggle and another to see his poetry and humor."

Belafonte says there will be people, both white and Negro, who won't like the show. "The section of the Negro community which will find fault with this small work would hardly be worth commenting on."

"No powerful mainstream will be involved, but I'm sure some of those in the bourgeois middle-class will not be happy to see certain scenes on their screens. They will be the ones who have been trying to scrape off their Negroness."

"There will probably be a segment that will feel we have not been militant or violent enough. The program has not been geared for extremes. Some whites will be outraged, too. The Ku Klux Klan will not like it."

According to Belafonte there were many excellent early Negro comedians. But Bert Williams, who appeared in the Ziegfeld Follies, was the first to be accepted outside the Negro community.

"Unfortunately, some of these extremely funny men came along at a time in history when the humor was used in a negative light. There were some comics in the movies who were very funny, but they became subservient, bug-eyed men with an Uncle Tom grin. Not that that doesn't exist. I dare say that 100 years from today, Amos and Andy could be considered funny to the Negro community."

"I listened to them when I was a child, every Sunday. Were they on Sundays? I think so, and that was the day we listened to radio — Jack Benny, Fred Allen and Amos and Andy."

"The Strollin' '20s," he says, "has given me the greatest satisfaction of anything I have ever worked on. The highest I paid any of the stars was $1,500, to Sidney, Diahann and Sammy. I paid the dancers more than anyone else. But everyone came to the show with passion and fervor."

Duke Ellington is also part of the show.

SAME GREAT FLAVOR in a BOLD NEW LABEL

Stroganoff Style Accents Liver

That's the famous Stroganoff sauce of mushrooms, onions, sour cream and dill seed pecking out from under bacon strips. It adds a gourmet touch to beef or pork liver.

Families aren't always to blame for not liking foods "that are good for them."

Sometimes homemakers, through disinterest or lack of know-how, simply have not presented the food at its winning best.

One famous example is liver. Often it hasn't been served in some homes. Sometimes, though served, it's come to the table dried, the result of cooking at too high a temperature for too long a time, maintains Reba Stagg, meat authority.

Temperatures should be low, cooking it slowly. A popular sauce idea used with other cuts has been borrowed and changed to fit this recipe.

To avoid curdling, just fold in sour cream as directed, not cooking, only heating through.

Liver a la Stroganoff
1 1/2 pounds beef or pork liver, sliced 1/4 inch thick

- 1/4 cup flour
- 3 tablespoons lard or drippings
- 2 small onions, sliced 1/4 inch thick
- 1 can (4 ounces) mushroom stems and pieces
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 2 teaspoons vinegar
- 1/4 teaspoon dill seed
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup dairy sour cream
- 6 slices cooked bacon

Dredge liver with flour. Brown lightly on each side in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Drain mushrooms and save liquid. Add onions and mushrooms. Cover and cook slowly 15 minutes. Remove liver, add 1 tablespoon flour, mushroom liquid, vinegar, dill seed and salt to pan in which liver was cooked. Simmer 5 minutes. Fold in sour cream, stirring constantly, until heated through. Serve sauce over liver. Top with bacon slices. 6 servings.

Heliport Is First of Its Kind in State

By ALVIN SCHAY

Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—When Fred McLane, 28, decided to leave his father's construction firm at Fort Smith, the business he started was quite a bit different.

McLane is president of Helicopters Inc., which has headquarters here and operations in Memphis, St. Louis and Springfield, Ill.

It is the first enterprise of its kind in the state and by early next month it will be using the state's first heliport.

What made young McLane decide to start Helicopters Inc.?

"We didn't have such a business in the state and the field seemed to be growing," he said. He is also a licensed helicopter pilot, having picked up his training commercially in Oklahoma.

McLane and one other Arkansan (who prefers not to be identified) started Helicopters Inc. on July 4, 1963, with one helicopter operating out of Fort Smith.

The firm moved to Adams Field here in April 1964, and now it has three helicopters based here (including one which floats), two in Memphis and two in St. Louis. Springfield, Ill., is a sub office of St. Louis.

McLane's firm is probably best known through its traffic watch work. Radio Station KMYO carries reports here on morning and afternoon business rush traffic conditions, with a policeman giving the information directly from the helicopter.

The firm also supplies the pilots and machines for traffic watches through stations WMC at Memphis, KSD at St. Louis, and WMAZ at Springfield.

McLane said his is the only firm in the nation with this many traffic control contracts.

It also does contract work for Army Engineers, utilities, contractors, farmers and others.

McLane said Helicopters Inc. recently made a break-through in agricultural work.

Before, helicopters could be used only for agricultural spraying. Thanks to a rig designed by L. P. Denevan of Jonesboro, through McLane said the machines can also seed and fertilize.

He said no one else in the country has the rig, which is being patented.

McLane said helicopters can do agricultural jobs better and more safely than fixed wing aircraft, or airplanes. One of the reasons, McLane claimed, is more even distribution by helicopters.

"I'm not saying the helicopter will replace the airplane in agricultural work," he said, "but there is a transition period now. The helicopter will do a better job at an equal price."

A lot of firms do photography work from his helicopters, McLane said. Power firms can check their lines and defoliate right of ways; contractors check job sites both to determine their bids on jobs and later to check progress of construction.

Helicopters Inc. also has a helicopter flight school, and is sales and service representative for Hughes Helicopters. McLane said he expects the firm to sell about 15 helicopters in Arkansas this year. They are priced from $30,000 to $70,000.

When the heliport next to the Arkansas River (and not far from the State Capitol) is completed, McLane said it would be a repair station for all makes of helicopters and a parts depot for Hughes craft. The firm has a large office at the site.

McLane said he felt Arkansas should utilize helicopters in law enforcement work, saying in all the states bordering Arkansas, state police use helicopters.

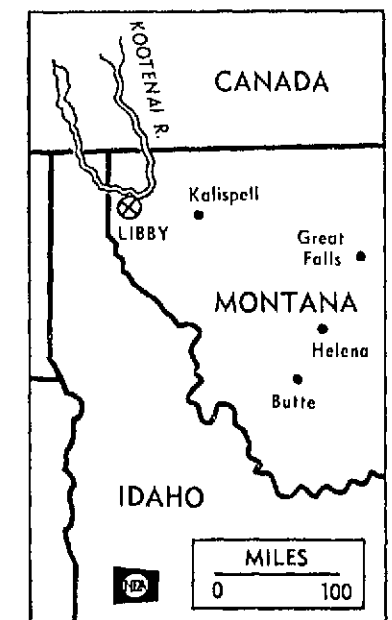

Woman Sheriff Is Different

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va. (AP)—Things haven't been the same around the courthouse since a shapely 22-year-old brunette was sworn in as Albemarle County's first woman deputy sheriff.

"It scares the hell out of death, because being a deputy is a lot different for a woman," says Nancy Norvelle. "It's a lot of responsibility. I just hope I can live up to the expectations of Sheriff (W.S.) Cook."

Miss Norvelle will carry a revolver, and later on she will attend a police school.

Her first day in office, when it came time to pin on her badge, she got a bit flustered. Then she turned her back on the waiting gallery—and when she turned around the badge was in place.

DAM GO-AHEAD—Agreement between the U.S. and Canadian governments clears the way for construction of a $325 million dam on the Kootenai River at Libby, Mont. Canadian approval was necessary since the dam's backup waters will extend across the border deep into British Columbia.

Save With Cabbage

by Gaynor Maddox
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Cabbage is geared to economy. It's both good eating and good nutrition, being rich in vitamin C, iron and other essential nutrients.

Learn how to prepare it deliciously if good but inexpensive meals are what you want.

When selecting cabbage, look for a firm-to-hard head, free from yellowing, worm injury or bursting, advises the Consumer and Marketing Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It should be heavy or fairly heavy in relation to size and be closely trimmed, with only three or four outer or wrapper leaves remaining.

Broiler-fryer chickens also are economical and always appeal to the family's appetite. So include them in low-cost family menus frequently.

The following one-day menu is a good example of how reasonably priced foods can be used in really pleasant meals.
